To both serve the needs of our patrons and protect our computers; we have placed the following restrictions on public internet usage. Please read and sign this sheet to indicate your understanding of these restrictions.

Note: The William Fogg Library now has four public access computers. All public-access computers in the Adult Section, as well as the public access computer in the Kent Children’s Room, are filtered. Internet access on all computers is restricted.

By signing this form, users of library computers agree to the following terms:

- Before using the computer, I will sign up at either the main circulation desk or in the children’s room.
- I will leave the computer after 30 minutes if another patron is waiting and/or if asked by a member of the library staff.
- I will leave the computer 15 minutes before the library closes.
- I understand that the library will provide basic computer and/or internet instruction only as time allows.
- I will review these policies with my child.

Furthermore, I agree not to:

- Violate any state or federal laws by such actions such as unauthorized password use or violation of either software agreements or another person’s privacy.
- Tamper with our machines, systems, or settings or load personal software.

Disclaimer:

- The William Fogg Library does not monitor and has no control over the information available through the Internet, and specifically disclaims any warranty as to the information’s accuracy, authoritativeness, timeliness, usefulness, or fitness for a particular purpose.
- The William Fogg Library assumes no responsibility for and shall have no liability for any direct, indirect, or consequential damages arising from the use of its electronic resources, or connections to other Internet resources.
